Learn more about Cambridge IGCSEs at www.cie.org.uk/cambridgesecondary2

Guided learning hours

Cambridge IGCSE syllabuses are designed on the assumption that learners have about 130 guided learning hours per subject over the duration of the course, but this is for guidance only. The number of hours required to gain the qualification may vary according to local curricular practice and the learners' prior experience of the subject.

1.3 Why choose Cambridge IGCSE History?

History is the study of the past. This syllabus offers the opportunity to study world history from the nineteenth century to the beginning of the twenty-first century. Learners will explore history from a diversity of perspectives, including social, economical, cultural and political. Cambridge IGCSE History encourages learners to raise questions and to develop and deploy historical skills, knowledge and understanding in order to provide historical explanations.

Learners studying Cambridge IGCSE History are given the opportunity to:

- develop an interest in and enthusiasm for learning about and understanding the past
- explore historical concepts such as cause and consequence, change and continuity, and similarity and difference

- appreciate historical evidence and how to use it
- gain a greater understanding of international issues and inter-relationships
- learn how to present clear, logical arguments.

Prior learning

We recommend that learners who are beginning this course should have previously studied some History.

Progression

Cambridge IGCSEs are general qualifications that enable learners to progress directly to employment, or to proceed to further qualifications.

Candidates who are awarded grades A* to C in Cambridge IGCSE History are well prepared to follow courses leading to Cambridge International AS and A Level History, or the equivalent.

Cambridge IGCSE is accepted by universities and employers worldwide as providing proof of historical skills, knowledge and understanding.

1.4 Cambridge ICE (International Certificate of Education)

Cambridge ICE is a group award for Cambridge IGCSE. It gives schools the opportunity to benefit from offering a broad and balanced curriculum by recognising the achievements of learners who pass examinations in at least seven subjects. To qualify for the Cambridge ICE award learners are required to have studied subjects from five groups: two languages from Group 1, and one subject from each of the remaining four groups. The seventh subject can be taken from any of the five subject groups.

History (0470) is in Group 2, Humanities and Social Sciences.

Learn more about Cambridge ICE at www.cie.org.uk/cambridgesecondary2

7. Description of components

7.1 Component 1: Written paper

The written paper lasts two hours.

Candidates answer two questions from Section A and one question from Section B.

Section A contains eight questions: four questions will be set from the 19th century Core Content in Option A and four questions will be set from the 20th century Core Content in Option B. Candidates answer any two questions.

Section B contains two questions on each of the seven Depth Studies. Candidates answer one question.

All questions on Component 1 are in the form of structured essays, split into three parts: (a), (b) and (c).

This is a compulsory component.

The paper is an externally set assessment, marked by Cambridge.

7.2 Component 2: Written paper

The written paper lasts two hours.

Candidates answer six questions on either the prescribed topic from the Core Content in Option A or the prescribed topic from the Core Content in Option B.

Each option includes a range of source material relating to the prescribed topic, and the six questions are based on the source material provided.

For the examination in 2016, the prescribed topics are:

19th century (Option A):

- Why, and with what effects, did Europeans expand their overseas empires in the 19th century? (June examination)
- How was Italy unified? (November examination)

20th century (Option B):

- Why did events in the Gulf matter, c. 1970–2000? (June examination)
- To what extent was the League of Nations a success? (November examination)

This is a compulsory component.

The paper is an externally set assessment, marked by Cambridge.

7.3 Component 3: Coursework

Candidates produce one piece of extended writing, up to 2000 words in length, based on content taken from any of the Depth Studies. Centres can devise a Depth Study of their own, if they want to cover the history of countries not included in the current Depth Studies, but these must be approved by Cambridge in advance. The coursework should be based on a single question and should not be broken down into sub-questions. The coursework must be focused on the issue of significance and must target assessment objectives 1 and 2.

The coursework component is internally assessed and externally moderated.

7.4 Component 4: Written paper

The written paper lasts one hour.

Candidates answer one question from a choice of two on each of the Depth Studies. Questions will focus on the issue of significance, testing assessment objectives 1 and 2.

The paper is an externally set assessment, marked by Cambridge.

8. Coursework: guidance for Centres

8.1 Approval of coursework schemes

To help Centres devise and set appropriate coursework schemes (especially those Centres preparing coursework for the first time for this exam), Cambridge coursework consultants advise on, assess and approve proposed coursework schemes. These schemes should consist of a programme of study and a coursework task. Centres must send their coursework schemes (at any time during the course) to:

The Product Manager
Cambridge IGCSE History
Cambridge International Examinations
1 Hills Road
Cambridge
CB1 2EU
UK

Or email the proposed coursework scheme to info@cie.org.uk marked for the attention of the Product Manager, Cambridge IGCSE History.

Cambridge will return coursework consultants' comments as quickly as possible. Once Cambridge has approved a coursework scheme, Centres do not need to resubmit it annually, unless it changes.

8.2 The nature, setting and assessment of coursework

Candidates must complete one coursework assignment, based on content taken from one of the Depth Studies. Centres can devise a Depth Study of their own, if they want to cover the history of countries not included in the current Depth Studies, but these must be approved in advance by Cambridge (see above).

The assignment must:

- consist of one extended piece of writing up to 2000 words in length. Any part of the answer beyond 2000 words will not be assessed
- be based on a single question about the significance of an individual, group, organisation, development, place or event
- allow candidates to develop and support their own arguments and judgements
- allow candidates to meet the requirements of assessment objectives AO1 and AO2.
- be assessed using the Cambridge generic mark scheme.

Examples of possible assignment tasks:

- How important was Lenin in the period 1917–24?
- How far was the New Deal a turning point in US history to 1941?
- How far has Mao's importance in Chinese history in the second half of the twentieth century been exaggerated?

The Cambridge generic mark scheme (see page 36) must be used to assess completed work. Coursework will be assessed using assessment objectives AO1 and AO2. These are weighted as follows:

AO1: 15 marks

AO2: 25 marks

However, coursework should be assessed holistically with one overall mark being awarded using the generic mark scheme.

8.3 The completion of coursework by candidates

Coursework may be produced in class or in the candidate's own time. Teachers can offer general guidance on how best to approach a coursework task, but must be careful not to exert too much influence over candidates' decisions. Coursework must be the candidate's own work. Any quotations and copied material must be fully acknowledged. Once coursework has been assessed, candidates are not allowed to repeat the task or redraft their work.

All coursework which is submitted for moderation must be kept in flat card files (not ring binders). They must be marked with candidates' names and numbers, and the Centre name and number clearly visible.

8.4 The generic mark scheme for coursework

How to use the mark scheme:

- Each level descriptor covers all the relevant assessment objectives.
- The descriptors should be read and applied as a whole.
- Make a best-fit match between the whole answer and the level descriptors.

Candidates do not have to meet all the requirements within a level before an answer can be placed in that level. The question to be asked about an answer is 'does it match e.g. Level 4 better than it matches Level 3?'

The extent to which the statements within the level have been achieved will be crucial. For example, if a marker is undecided between placing an answer in Level 2 or Level 3 but finally decides Level 3 is a better fit, the answer will be placed at the bottom of that level. The following are the key elements to look for in an answer:

- relevance and focus
- a direct answer to the question
- command of the history and an ability to use this to support arguments and judgements.

Level	Marks	Description
Level 5	36–40	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Candidates demonstrate and select and effectively deploy relevant and accurate contextual knowledge. • Candidates select a wide range of relevant information which is well-organised and deployed effectively. • Candidates demonstrate excellent understanding of the significance of the key features, reasons, results or changes of societies, events, beliefs, people and situations studied with good awareness of the importance of interrelationships and the broad context. • Candidates consistently produce relevant, effective, convincing and well-supported arguments and judgements. • Candidates produce conclusions that are entirely consistent with the rest of the answer and are effectively supported.
Level 4	27–35	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Candidates demonstrate and select and effectively deploy mostly relevant and accurate contextual knowledge. • Candidates select a range of relevant information which is generally well-organised and effectively deployed. • Candidates demonstrate a good understanding of the significance of the key features, reasons, results or changes of societies, events, beliefs, people and situations studied with good awareness of the broad context. • Candidates demonstrate some understanding of interrelationships in the period studied. • In several places, candidates produce relevant, effective, convincing and well-supported arguments and judgements. • Candidates produce conclusions that are argued and supported.

Level 3	18–26	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Candidates demonstrate and select some relevant contextual knowledge and deploy it appropriately to address the question in several parts of the answer. • Candidates select and organise mostly relevant information which is sometimes deployed relevantly. • Candidates demonstrate a reasonable understanding of the key features, reasons, results or changes of societies, events, beliefs, people and situations studied with some awareness of the broad context. • Candidates produce structured descriptions and some reasonable explanations. • Candidates make some comparisons or links. • Candidates produce conclusions that are based on basic explanations with some support.
Level 2	9–17	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Candidates demonstrate some limited contextual knowledge. • Candidates select and organise some relevant information. This is deployed relevantly on a few occasions. • Candidates describe or narrate some relevant key features, identifying and describing some reasons, results and changes of societies, events, beliefs, people and situations studied but with limited awareness of the broad context. • Candidates demonstrate some ability to structure descriptions or narratives. • Candidates attempt some obvious comparisons or links. • Candidates assert relevant conclusions but these are not explained or supported.
Level 1	1–8	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Candidates demonstrate little relevant contextual knowledge. • Candidates demonstrate limited ability to select and organise information. • Candidates describe or narrate a few relevant key features. The work contains a little relevant information but this is not deployed relevantly in terms of answering the question.
Level 0	0	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Candidates submit no evidence or do not address the question.

Recording candidates' marks

Candidates' marks for the coursework component must be recorded on the Individual Candidate Record Card produced by Cambridge. These forms, and the instructions for completing them, may be downloaded from www.cie.org.uk/samples. The database will ask you for the syllabus code (i.e. 0470) and your Centre number, after which it will take you to the correct forms. Follow the instructions when completing each form.

8.5 Notes on moderation

Internal moderation

If two or more teachers within a Centre are involved in internal assessment of coursework, Centres must make arrangements to ensure that all candidates are assessed to a common standard.

The internally moderated marks for all candidates must be recorded on the Coursework Assessment Summary Form. This form, and the instructions for completing it, may be downloaded from www.cie.org.uk/samples. The database will ask you for the syllabus code (i.e. 0470) and your Centre number, after which it will take you to the correct form. Follow the instructions when completing the form.

External moderation

External moderation of internal assessment is carried out by Cambridge.

- Centres must submit the internally assessed marks of all candidates to Cambridge.
- Centres must also submit the internally assessed work of a sample of candidates to Cambridge. The Cambridge Administrative Guide, available on our website, provides details of which candidates are to be included in the sample.

The deadlines and methods for submitting internally assessed marks and work are in the Cambridge Administrative Guide available on our website.

8.6 Notes on the Individual Candidate Record Card and the Coursework Assessment Summary Form

The Individual Candidate Record Card can be found at www.cie.org.uk/samples

Note: The Individual Candidate Record Card is only to be used by teachers for candidates who have undertaken coursework as part of the Cambridge IGCSE Certificate.

The Coursework Assessment Summary Form can also be found at www.cie.org.uk/samples. To complete the form, follow the instructions printed on the back.

More details on procedures for external moderation are also given on the back of this form.

9. Other information

Equality and inclusion

Cambridge International Examinations has taken great care in the preparation of this syllabus and assessment materials to avoid bias of any kind. To comply with the UK Equality Act (2010), Cambridge has designed this qualification with the aim of avoiding direct and indirect discrimination.

The standard assessment arrangements may present unnecessary barriers for candidates with disabilities or learning difficulties. Arrangements can be put in place for these candidates to enable them to access the assessments and receive recognition of their attainment. Access arrangements will not be agreed if they give candidates an unfair advantage over others or if they compromise the standards being assessed.

Candidates who are unable to access the assessment of any component may be eligible to receive an award based on the parts of the assessment they have taken.

Information on access arrangements is found in the Cambridge Handbook which can be downloaded from the website www.cie.org.uk/examsofficer

Language

This syllabus and the associated assessment materials are available in English only.

Grading and reporting

Cambridge IGCSE results are shown by one of the grades A*, A, B, C, D, E, F or G indicating the standard achieved, A* being the highest and G the lowest. 'Ungraded' indicates that the candidate's performance fell short of the standard required for grade G. 'Ungraded' will be reported on the statement of results but not on the certificate. The letters Q (result pending), X (no results) and Y (to be issued) may also appear on the statement of results but not on the certificate.

Entry codes

To maintain the security of our examinations, we produce question papers for different areas of the world, known as 'administrative zones'. Where the component entry code has two digits, the first digit is the component number given in the syllabus. The second digit is the location code, specific to an administrative zone. Information about entry codes can be found in the Cambridge Guide to Making Entries.

10. Additional information for England, Wales and Northern Ireland

This syllabus appears on the Register of Regulated Qualifications (<http://register.ofqual.gov.uk>) as a Cambridge International Level 1/Level 2 Certificate. In other contexts it is known as a Cambridge IGCSE.

Cambridge International Level 1/Level 2 Certificates are approved for regulation in England, Wales and Northern Ireland and are eligible for inclusion in school and college performance tables.

For up-to-date information on the performance tables, including the list of qualifications which count towards the English Baccalaureate, please go to the Department for Education website and search on 'performance tables'.

Candidates who are awarded grades D to G will have achieved an award at Level 1 of the National Qualifications Framework. Candidates who are awarded grades A* to C will have achieved an award at Level 2 of the National Qualifications Framework.

Prior learning

Candidates in England who are beginning this course should normally have followed the Key Stage 3 programme of study within the National Curriculum for England.

Other candidates beginning this course should have achieved an equivalent level of general education.

Progression

Cambridge International Level 1/Level 2 Certificates are general qualifications that enable candidates to progress directly to employment, or to proceed to further qualifications.

This syllabus provides a foundation for further study at Levels 2 and 3 of the National Qualifications Framework, including GCSE, Cambridge International AS and A Level GCE, and Cambridge Pre-U qualifications.

Candidates who are awarded grades A* to C are well prepared to follow courses leading to Level 3 AS and A Level GCE History, Cambridge Pre-U History, the International Baccalaureate programme or the Cambridge International AS and A Level History.

Grading and reporting

Cambridge International Level 1/Level 2 Certificate results are shown by one of the grades A*, A, B, C, D, E, F or G indicating the standard achieved, A* being the highest and G the lowest. 'Ungraded' indicates that the candidate's performance fell short of the standard required for grade G. 'Ungraded' will be reported on the statement of results but not on the certificate. The letters Q (result pending), X (no results) and Y (to be issued) may also appear on the statement of results but not on the certificate.

Overlapping qualifications

Every qualification is assigned to a national classification code indicating the subject area to which it belongs. Candidates who enter for more than one qualification with the same classification code will only have one grade (the highest) counted for the purpose of the school and college performance tables. Centres may wish to advise candidates that, if they take two qualifications with the same classification code, colleges are very likely to take the view that they have achieved only one of the two qualifications. Candidates who have any doubts about their subject combinations should seek advice, either from their centre or the institution to which they wish to progress.

Spiritual, moral, ethical, social, legislative, economic and cultural issues

This syllabus helps students to consider and understand the following issues:

Spiritual – Students have many opportunities to consider the nature of proof, truth and certainty, human achievement and personal insights, the value of individuals and communities, such as the role of Nelson Mandela in ending minority rule in South Africa.

Moral and ethical – Students are encouraged to consider the moral and ethical implications of all the historical decisions studied. For example: judging the fairness of the peace treaties of 1919–23, and considering the nature of the apartheid state in South Africa.

Social and cultural – Social issues are addressed in topics such as the changing role of women in the United States during the 1920s. Many Depth Studies address cultural issues, such as the study of Germany, 1918–45, and the USA, 1919–41.

Sustainable development, health and safety considerations and international developments

This syllabus provides opportunities to explore the following:

Health, safety and environmental issues – These issues are addressed in, for example, the Depth Study on China, c.1930–c.1990, which looks at health issues; the Depth Study on the First World War, 1914–18, which considers conditions in, and problems of, trench warfare; and also in the Core Content topic on the League of Nations, which looks at the humanitarian work of the League.

Environmental issues are raised when considering how past actions, choices and values impact on present and future societies, economies and environments.

European and international dimensions – The syllabus Core Content considers the European dimension in terms of both conflict and co-operation. These issues are addressed through Key Questions such as ‘To what extent was the League of Nations a success?’, and ‘Why had international peace collapsed by 1939?’

The international dimension is a significant feature of the Core Content, for example in the Key Questions ‘Who was to blame for the Cold War?’, and ‘How effectively did the USA contain the spread of Communism?’. This continues in the Depth Studies, through Key Questions such as ‘What was the impact of Communist rule on China’s relations with other countries?’.
