Introduction

Why choose Cambridge Pre-U?

Cambridge Pre-U is designed to equip learners with the skills required to make a success of their studies at university. Schools can choose from a wide range of subjects.

Cambridge Pre-U is built on a core set of educational aims to prepare learners for university admission, and also for success in higher education and beyond:

- to support independent and self-directed learning
- to encourage learners to think laterally, critically and creatively, and to acquire good problem-solving skills
- to promote comprehensive understanding of the subject through depth and rigour.

Cambridge Pre-U Principal Subjects are linear. A candidate must take all the components together at the end of the course in one examination series. Cambridge Pre-U Principal Subjects are assessed at the end of a two-year programme of study.

The Cambridge Pre-U nine-point grade set recognises the full range of learner ability.

Guided learning hours

Cambridge Pre-U syllabuses are designed on the assumption that learners have around 380 guided learning hours per Principal Subject over the duration of the course, but this is for guidance only. The number of hours may vary according to curricular practice and the learners' prior experience of the subject.

Why choose Cambridge Pre-U History?

- Pre-U History offers opportunities to explore a range of periods and regions in the past. Teachers can foster genuine interest and enjoyment in the subject by selecting syllabus content from the fourth century to c. 2005. Learners can study not only British and European topics but also key events in the history of the Americas, Africa, China, Japan, Australasia and South-east Asia.
- Pre-U History emphasises breadth as well as depth of teaching and learning. Outline papers require coverage of reasonable periods of history and are designed to improve understanding, promote a sense of perspective and provide a broader context for the study of individual topics.
- The linear assessment structure means that learners are tested at the end of the two-year course. This allows learners to approach the examination in a mature and confident way with time to formulate their viewpoints and develop their knowledge, understanding and skills. By the end of the course, learners will have had time to consider and revisit topics after studying a wide range of history.
- The syllabus encourages historical debate and discussion. It raises questions which elicit learners' independent and supported views, judgements and comparisons. Learners are rewarded for offering informed independent views which result from genuine engagement with the study of history.
- Special Subject essays offer the possibility of working in depth and using a range of source material.
- The Personal Investigation enables learners to pursue a topic which engages their interests and imagination. The word limit enables learners to work in depth but at the same time requires them to discriminate in their choice of supporting evidence and to develop economy in writing.

Prior learning

Cambridge Pre-U builds on the knowledge, understanding and skills typically gained by candidates taking Level 1/Level 2 qualifications such as Cambridge IGCSE. It is recommended that candidates have attained communication and literacy skills at a level equivalent to IGCSE/GCSE at grade C.

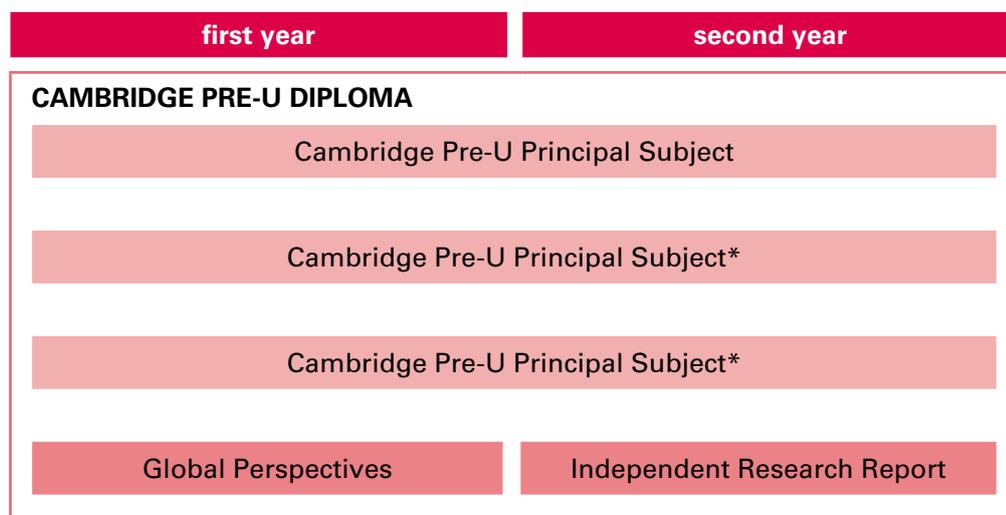

Progression

The Cambridge Pre-U is considered to be an excellent preparation for university, employment and life. It helps to develop the in-depth subject knowledge and understanding which are so important to universities and employers.

Cambridge Pre-U History is exactly what it claims to be – a preparation for future study at university. This syllabus offers learners the opportunity to study what interests them, to try new topics, to build on previous skills and knowledge, and to question and challenge accepted views. Many of the skills this syllabus aims to develop – evaluation, analysis and exercise of well-considered personal judgement – are not only relevant to further study in other disciplines but are valued as important skills for success in the modern world.

Cambridge Pre-U Diploma

If learners choose, they can combine Cambridge Pre-U qualifications to achieve the Cambridge Pre-U Diploma; this comprises three Cambridge Pre-U Principal Subjects* together with Global Perspectives and Research (GPR). The Cambridge Pre-U Diploma, therefore, provides the opportunity for interdisciplinary study informed by an international perspective and includes an independent research project.

* Up to two A Levels, Scottish Advanced Highers or IB Diploma programme courses at higher level can be substituted for Principal Subjects.

Learn more about the Cambridge Pre-U Diploma at www.cie.org.uk/cambridgepreu

Syllabus aims

The aims of the syllabus, listed below, are the same for all candidates. They are:

- to enable learners to acquire a breadth of historical knowledge across a range of periods and regions and to encourage consideration of links and comparisons between them
- to promote depth of understanding of historical concepts such as change and continuity, causation and motivation, as well as period-specific concepts such as nationalism, revolution and colonisation
- to develop understanding of historical sources and the methods used by historians
- to encourage learners to be critical, reflective and independent, able to interpret and evaluate historical source material and offer substantiated explanations to historical questions.

Scheme of assessment

For Cambridge Pre-U History, candidates take four components.

Candidates choose two components from Papers 1 to 4 (not on the same country or region). All candidates take Paper 5 and Paper 6.

Papers 1–4 History Outlines
The dates shown below are indicative of a period of time in history. Please see the syllabus content, starting on page 15, for further detail regarding chronological divisions between sections.

Paper 6 Personal Investigation
Scheme of Assessment for Paper 6:

Duration	N/A
Marks	60 marks
Weighting	25%
Type of assessment	Extended essay, externally marked. Candidates write an essay of 3500–4000 words based on a research investigation.

Availability

This syllabus is examined in the June examination series.

Some components are not available to private candidates. For more information, please see the Cambridge UK Guide to Making Entries.

Combining this with other syllabuses

Candidates can combine this syllabus in a series with any other Cambridge syllabus, except syllabuses with the same title at the same level.

Assessment objectives

A01	Recall, select and deploy historical knowledge accurately.
A02	Investigate historical questions and present explanations, showing understanding of appropriate concepts and arriving at substantiated judgements, using historical documents where appropriate.
A03	Explain, interpret and evaluate source material and interpretations of the historical events studied.
A04	Organise and present historical information with a balanced, coherent structure, communicating historical knowledge and understanding clearly and persuasively, using appropriate terminology.

Relationship between scheme of assessment and assessment objectives

The approximate weightings allocated to each of the assessment objectives are summarised below. The table shows the assessment objectives (AO) as a percentage of each component and as a percentage of the overall Cambridge Pre-U History qualification.

	AO1	AO2	AO3	AO4
Papers 1–4: History Outlines	33%	33%	–	33%
Paper 5: Special Subject (source-based questions)	25%	25%	25%	25%
Paper 5: Special Subject (essay questions)	33%	33%	–	33%
Paper 6: Personal Investigation	25%	25%	25%	25%
Weighting of AO in overall qualification	30%	30%	10%	30%

Grading and reporting

Cambridge International Level 3 Pre-U Certificates (Principal Subjects and Short Courses) are qualifications in their own right. Each individual Principal Subject and Short Course is graded separately on a scale of nine grades: Distinction 1, Distinction 2, Distinction 3, Merit 1, Merit 2, Merit 3, Pass 1, Pass 2 and Pass 3.

Grading Cambridge Pre-U Principal Subjects and Short Courses

Grade descriptions

The following grade descriptions indicate the level of attainment characteristic of the middle of the given grade band. They give a general indication of the required standard at each specified grade. The descriptions should be interpreted in relation to the content outlined in the syllabus; they are not designed to define that content.

The grade awarded will depend in practice upon the extent to which the candidate has met the assessment objectives overall. Shortcomings in some aspects of the examination may be balanced by better performance in others.

Distinction (D2)

- Very accurate recall, selection and deployment of historical knowledge.
- Clear and critical understanding of appropriate historical concepts.
- Consistently analytical work, with sharp, clear and well-developed historical explanations.
- Coherent, well-structured and relevant arguments.
- Successful engagement with historiography where appropriate, and critical evaluation of source material.
- Consistently clear and fluent writing, which uses historical terminology accurately.
- Consistent and sophisticated awareness of links and comparisons between different countries or different periods.

Merit (M2)

- Accurate recall, selection and deployment of historical knowledge.
- Clear understanding of appropriate historical concepts.
- Mostly analytical work, with clear and developed historical explanations.
- Coherent, clearly structured and mostly relevant arguments.
- Some engagement with historiography where appropriate, and sound evaluation of source material.
- Mostly clear and fluent writing, which uses historical terminology appropriately.
- Awareness of links and comparisons between different countries or different periods.

Pass (P2)

- Some accurate recall, selection and deployment of historical knowledge.
- Some understanding of appropriate historical concepts.
- Some analysis amongst descriptive and narrative work, and at times clear and developed historical explanations.
- Attempts at arguments, with clarity and consistent relevance at times.
- Some awareness of differing interpretations, and valid attempts at evaluation of source material.
- Varied clarity and fluency in writing, which uses simple historical terminology.
- Some awareness of links and comparisons between different countries or different periods.

Description of components

Papers 1–4 History Outlines

Candidates take two components from Papers 1–4. Candidates may take only one paper from Paper 1 (a, b or c) and only one paper from Paper 2 (a, b or c). Candidates cannot take, for example, both Paper 1a and Paper 1b or Paper 2b and Paper 2c.

Paper 1 British History Outlines c. 300–c. 2000

Candidates may enter for one of the following options:

- 1a British History Outlines, c. 300–1547
- 1b British History Outlines, 1399–1815
- 1c British History Outlines, 1688–c. 2000

Paper 2 European History Outlines, c. 300–c. 2000

Candidates may enter for one of the following options:

- 2a European History Outlines, c. 300–c. 1500
- 2b European History Outlines, c. 1400–c. 1800
- 2c European History Outlines, c. 1700–c. 2000

Paper 3 United States History Outlines, c. 1750–c. 2005

Paper 4 African and Asian History Outlines, c. 1750–c. 2000

Notes on Papers 1–4 History Outlines

- History Outlines papers encourage learners to study topics, themes and issues in their wider historical context. These papers provide a wide range of choice.
- The History Outlines papers are divided into sections. Candidates answer three essay questions from at least two sections of each of the two papers they have chosen. The sections are listed in the 'Syllabus content' pages of this syllabus.
- There can be no guarantee that all the content entries will be allocated questions every single year, although the large majority will. Since any division of history into periods is to an extent artificial, there will be some questions (a small proportion) which will, to a degree, relate to the period before or after that in which they appear.
- In Papers 1, 2 and 3 the sections are organised chronologically and thematically (see pages 15–29 of the Syllabus). In Paper 4 the sections are organised regionally and thematically (see pages 29–31 of the syllabus).
- There is normally a choice of five questions on each chronological or regional section and a choice of six questions on each thematic section. Usually each question is set on a different topic in the section. More than one question may be set on some larger topics.
- Candidates should demonstrate analysis and critical evaluation in their responses. They should also show, where appropriate, an awareness of links and comparisons between different countries and different periods.

- To ensure breadth of study, in the Outlines papers, candidates must not answer questions on a topic directly connected with their chosen Special Subject for Paper 5 (Papers 5a to 5k). Such questions will be indicated by a rubric in bold type. No more than two questions in any section will be barred in this way. See the example below from Paper 1a: British History Outlines, c. 300–1547.

(Candidates offering Paper 5c: The Reign of Henry VIII should not answer this question.)

Discuss the judgement that the Henrician Reformation (c. 1529–47) was driven entirely by dynastic and financial considerations.

Paper 5 Special Subject

Candidates take one Special Subject paper from the following:

- Paper 5a The Norman Conquest, 1051–1087 (available for examination in 2016 only)
- Paper 5b The Crusades, 1095–1192
- Paper 5c The Reign of Henry VIII, 1509–1547
- Paper 5d Reformation Europe, 1516–1559 (available for examination in 2016 and 2017 only)
- Paper 5e The Reign of Charles I, 1625–1649
- Paper 5f The French Revolution, 1774–1794
- Paper 5g Gladstone and Disraeli, 1867–1886 (available for examination in 2016 only)
- Paper 5g Napoleon and Europe, 1795–1815 (new, available for examination from 2017)
- Paper 5h Russia in Revolution, 1905–1924
- Paper 5i Germany, 1919–1945
- Paper 5j China under Mao Zedong, 1949–1976
- Paper 5k The Civil Rights Movement in the USA, 1954–1980

Notes on Paper 5 Special Subject

Candidates answer two questions on their chosen Special Subject: a compulsory two-part source-based question and a choice of essay question. The source-based question and the essay question carry equal marks.

Question 1: source-based question

- The source-based question is based on one of the six topics that make up the chosen Special Subject. See the 'Syllabus content' section for details of the topics.
- Topics nominated for examination will be published on our secure online support for Cambridge teachers (go to <http://teachers.cie.org.uk>) at the beginning of the academic year in which the examination is to be set.
- The question consists of two parts. Both part-questions are based on the sources.
- Candidates should consider issues of corroboration and difference in the set of sources and evaluate the quality of the evidence and historical interpretations.

Question 2: essay question

- Candidates answer one essay question from a choice of three. Each question is based on one of the six topics that make up the chosen Special Subject, although in some cases a question might require knowledge of more than one topic. The whole range of six topics is covered by questions in the examination over a two-year cycle.
- Candidates are invited, where appropriate, to use other relevant sources they have studied, as well as contextual knowledge in their responses.
- None of the essay questions will be set on the same topic as the source-based question.

In both questions candidates should demonstrate analysis and critical evaluation in their responses. They should also show, where appropriate, an awareness of links and comparisons between different countries and different periods.

Paper 6 Personal Investigation

The Personal Investigation is an extended essay of 3500–4000 words (including quotations, but excluding the bibliography), based on a research investigation by the candidate.

Candidates are expected to:

- use a wide range of sources
- demonstrate a critical sense where appropriate
- demonstrate an awareness of links and comparisons with other countries and periods
- display high standards of presentation and use of English
- provide footnotes and a bibliography.

Candidates have free choice of title, provided:

- the title is on a historical subject
- the title enables discursive analysis and evaluation
- the subject matter is not taken from the candidate's chosen Special Subject. (Cambridge must be notified of the Special Subject at the same time as the candidate's Personal Investigation title is submitted.)

All essay titles must be approved in advance by Cambridge using the Outline Proposal Form available on our secure site for Cambridge teachers (go to <http://teachers.cie.org.uk>).

- Candidates from the same school may not choose identical essay titles.
- Further guidance on choosing titles is available in the Cambridge Pre-U History Teacher Guide.

Giving guidance to candidates

It is acceptable for teachers to offer candidates guidance on how to approach their Personal Investigation. Acceptable forms of guidance in the early stages might include:

- discussion
- help in formulating the title
- suggested reading
- devising strategies and approaches.

As the investigation develops, acceptable forms of guidance might also include:

- checks on progress
- suggested lines of enquiry and possible supplementary questions
- advice on overall strategy.

Teachers must not take in drafts of part of or the whole investigation for marking or correction. The investigation must be the candidate's own work and a declaration to that effect from the teacher and the candidate will be required.

Submission and assessment of Personal Investigations

- Personal Investigations are externally marked.
- Centres must ensure that the completed Outline Proposal Form and a signed declaration of authenticity of the work is attached to submitted investigations.

Equality and inclusion

Cambridge has taken great care in the preparation of this syllabus and related assessment materials to avoid bias of any kind. To comply with the UK Equality Act (2010), Cambridge has designed this qualification with the aim of avoiding direct and indirect discrimination.

The standard assessment arrangements may present unnecessary barriers for candidates with disabilities or learning difficulties. Arrangements can be put in place for these candidates to enable them to access the assessments and receive recognition of their attainment. Access arrangements will not be agreed if they give candidates an unfair advantage over others or if they compromise the standards being assessed. Candidates who are unable to access the assessment of any component may be eligible to receive an award based on the parts of the assessment they have taken. Information on access arrangements is found in the Cambridge Handbook (UK), for the relevant year, which can be downloaded from the website www.cie.org.uk/examsOfficers
