Why choose Cambridge?

We work with schools worldwide to build an education that shapes knowledge, understanding and skills. Together, we give learners the confidence they need to thrive and make a positive impact in a changing world.

As part of the University of Cambridge, we offer a globally trusted and flexible framework for education from age 3 to 19, informed by research, experience, and listening to educators.

With recognised qualifications, high-quality resources, comprehensive support and valuable insights, we help schools prepare every student for the opportunities and challenges ahead.

Qualifications that are recognised and valued worldwide

From the world's top-ranked universities to local higher education institutions, Cambridge qualifications open doors to a world of opportunities.

Setting a global standard

With over 160 years of experience in delivering fair, valid and reliable assessments to students worldwide, we offer a global, recognised performance standard for international education.

Your path, your way

Schools can adapt our curriculum, high-quality teaching and learning resources and flexible assessments to their local context. Our aligned offer helps Cambridge schools support every learner to reach their potential and thrive.

Learning with lasting impact

Cambridge learners build subject knowledge and conceptual understanding, and develop a broad range of skills, learning habits and attributes to help make them ready for the world.

Improving learning outcomes through data-led insight and action

Our trusted baseline and diagnostic assessments, together with our insights and evaluation service, help schools turn data into knowledge and actionable insights, to inform teaching decisions and improve learner outcomes.

Bringing together a community of experts

We bring together the collective knowledge of experts and our diverse community of educators worldwide, supporting them to learn from one another and share ideas and information.

Tackling the climate crisis together

We believe that education is key to tackling the climate crisis. Together with Cambridge schools, we can empower young people with the skills and knowledge to take action on climate change, helping them be ready for the world.

School feedback: 'We think the Cambridge curriculum is superb preparation for university.'

Feedback from: Christoph Guttentag, Dean of Undergraduate Admissions, Duke University, USA

1 Why choose this syllabus?

Key benefits

The best motivation for a student is a real passion for the subject they are learning. Cambridge International AS & A Level give schools flexibility to offer a broad and balanced curriculum with a choice of over 50 subjects. Students can select the subjects they love and that they are best at, enabling them to reach their potential and thrive.

Following a Cambridge International AS & A Level programme helps students develop abilities which universities value highly, including:

- a deep subject knowledge
- conceptual understanding and higher-level thinking skills
- presenting ordered and coherent arguments
- independent learning and research.

Cambridge International AS & A Level Classical Studies develops a set of transferable skills. The multi-disciplinary nature of Classical Studies combines different areas of study such as literature, history of art and history and leads to a greater understanding of the relationship between different intellectual disciplines, encouraging learners to make connections between them.

Our approach in Cambridge International AS & A Level Classical Studies supports the development of learners who are:

confident, exploring, interpreting and evaluating a wide range of Classical source material.

responsible, acquiring knowledge and skills through independent reading and study.

reflective, considering how the Classical world has influenced their own society and reflecting on what they can learn from Classical societies.

innovative, considering new viewpoints and interpretations of texts, historical sources, artefacts and buildings.

engaged, developing their understanding of the Classical world and pursuing different perspectives and ideas.

School feedback: ‘Cambridge students develop a deep understanding of subjects and independent thinking skills.’

Feedback from: Principal, Rockledge High School, USA

Key concepts

Key concepts are essential ideas that help students develop a deep understanding of their subject and make links between different aspects. Key concepts may open up new ways of thinking about, understanding or interpreting the important things to be learned.

Good teaching and learning will incorporate and reinforce a subject's key concepts to help students gain:

- a greater depth as well as breadth of subject knowledge
- confidence, especially in applying knowledge and skills in new situations
- the vocabulary to discuss their subject conceptually and show how different aspects link together
- a level of mastery of their subject to help them enter higher education.

Carefully introducing and developing key concepts at the right time will help to underpin the teaching. You may identify additional key concepts which will also enrich teaching and learning.

The key concepts for Cambridge International AS & A Level Classical Studies are:

- Interpretation
Our knowledge of the Classical world is based on interpreting the materials that have been left to us. Students will consider the different ways that a source can be interpreted and how the Classical world has been subsequently reconstructed and presented by historians and classicists.
- Judgement
The study of the Classical world involves forming opinions based on the evidence that is available to us. Students will consider the value of different source material, studying the differing depictions of the same subject matter and learning to make an overall judgement.
- Significance
The importance attached to an event, individual or entity in the past, whether at the time or subsequent to it. Students will study societies, literature and people in the context of their own time and their legacy in today's world.
- Context
Artefacts and literature can only be fully understood by placing them in their social and historical setting and considering the context of the society in which they were produced.
- Similarity and Difference
The similarities and differences between not only different cultures within the Classical world and our own but also between people, events and situations.
- Intention
The study of the Classical world involves a wide range of material. Considering the reasons behind its creation is crucial to understanding the significance and potential bias inherent in the evidence.

Qualifications that are recognised and valued worldwide

Cambridge qualifications prepare and equip learners with the skills they need to thrive at university and beyond. The world's best higher education institutions recognise our qualifications and value the critical thinking skills, independent research abilities and deep subject knowledge that Cambridge learners bring.

We continually work with universities and colleges in every part of the world to ensure that they understand and accept our qualifications. More than 2500 universities in over 90 countries formally recognise Cambridge qualifications, with many more accepting our qualifications on application.

UK ENIC, the national agency in the UK for the recognition and comparison of international qualifications and skills, has carried out an independent benchmarking study of Cambridge International AS & A Level and found it to be comparable to the standard of AS & A Level in the UK. This means students can be confident that their Cambridge International AS & A Level qualifications are accepted as equivalent, grade for grade, to UK AS & A Levels by leading universities worldwide.

A choice of assessment routes

Cambridge International AS & A Level offers a choice of assessment routes with staged assessment available in many subjects: Cambridge International AS Level can be offered as a standalone qualification or as part of a progression to Cambridge International A Level.

Cambridge International AS Level Classical Studies makes up the first half of the Cambridge International A Level course in Classical Studies and provides a foundation for the study of Classical Studies at Cambridge International A Level. The AS Level can also be delivered as a standalone qualification. Depending on local university entrance requirements, students may be able to use it to progress directly to university courses in Classical Studies or some other subjects. It is also suitable as part of a course of general education.

Cambridge International A Level Classical Studies provides a foundation for the study of Classical Studies or related courses in higher education. Equally it is suitable as part of a course of general education.

For more information about the relationship between the Cambridge International AS Level and Cambridge International A Level see the 'Assessment overview' section of the Syllabus overview.

Supporting teachers

We believe education works best when teaching and learning are closely aligned to the curriculum, resources and assessment. Our high-quality teaching support helps to maximise teaching time and enables teachers to engage learners of all backgrounds and abilities.

We aim to provide the following support for each Cambridge qualification:

- Syllabus
- Specimen question papers and mark schemes
- Specimen paper answers
- Schemes of Work
- Example candidate responses
- Past papers and mark schemes
- Principal examiner reports for teachers

These resources are available on the School Support Hub at www.cambridgeinternational.org/support, our secure online site for Cambridge teachers. Your exams officer can provide you with a login.

Additional teaching & learning resources are also available for many syllabuses and vary according to the nature of the subject and the structure of the assessment of each syllabus. These can include ready-built lesson materials, digital resources and multimedia for the classroom and homework, guidance on assessment and much more. Beyond the resources available on the Schools Support Hub, a wide range of endorsed textbooks and associated teaching and learning support are available from Cambridge at www.cambridge.org/education and from other publishers. Resources vary according to the nature of the subject and the structure of the assessment of each syllabus.

You can also contact our global Cambridge community or talk to a senior examiner on our discussion forums.

2 Syllabus overview

Aims

The aims describe the purposes of a course based on this syllabus.

Students following a course based on this syllabus will:

- develop an understanding of Greek and Roman civilisation, and an appreciation of the Classical world
- acquire an understanding of the core foundations of Western traditions of architecture, art, history, literature, and political thought – traditions which have had major influences on the shape of the modern world
- develop their awareness of diversity in civilisations by understanding cultures, values and assumptions, which are different from contemporary views
- develop a personal response to a range of material from the Greek and Roman world.

We are an education organisation and politically neutral. The contents of this syllabus, examination papers and associated materials do not endorse any political view. We endeavour to treat all aspects of the exam process neutrally.

Content overview

In this syllabus, Classical Studies is defined as the study of the civilisations of Greece and Rome in the Classical period. All sources are studied in English and no knowledge of Classical Greek or Latin is required.

Assessment objectives

The assessment objectives (AOs) are:

AO1 Knowledge and understanding

Demonstrate knowledge and understanding of literary, cultural, material or historical sources in their appropriate contexts.

AO2 Analysis and evaluation

Analyse, evaluate and respond to literary, cultural, material or historical sources to produce coherent and reasoned arguments.

Weighting for assessment objectives

The approximate weightings allocated to each of the assessment objectives (AOs) are summarised below.

Assessment objectives as a percentage of the qualification

Assessment objective	Weighting in AS Level %	Weighting in A Level %
AO1 Knowledge and understanding	50	45
AO2 Analysis and evaluation	50	55
Total	100	100

Assessment objectives as a percentage of each component

Assessment objective	Weighting in components %
	Paper 1	Paper 2	Paper 3	Paper 4
AO1 Knowledge and understanding	50	50	40	40
AO2 Analysis and evaluation	50	50	60	60
Total	100	100	100	100

3 Subject content

Classical Studies involves the study of the civilisations of Greece and Rome in the Classical period. The topics allow candidates to survey the culture, literature, history and politics of the Classical period as well as studying significant individuals.

This syllabus gives you the flexibility to design a course that will interest, challenge and engage your learners. Where appropriate you are responsible for selecting resources and examples, topics and subject contexts to support your learners' study. These should be appropriate for the learners' age, cultural background and learning context as well as complying with your school policies and local legal requirements.

All sources are studied in English and no knowledge of Classical Greek or Latin is necessary.

Sources for study

No specific edition or translation of a literary source is set because some editions may not be accessible in all parts of the world. Centres may use any complete translation in their teaching.

For the literary topics (Aristophanes in Paper 1 and Virgil's Aeneid in Paper 2, Greek Tragedy and Homeric Epic in Paper 4) where questions relating to specific lines of a literary source may be used, the syllabus indicates which translation/edition will be used on question papers.

Paper 1 – Greek Civilisation

Paper 1 Greek Civilisation allows students to explore the history, literature or material culture of the Classical Greek world.

These different topics allow teachers flexibility in designing a course that meets the needs and interests of their students.

Candidates choose one topic from:

Either

Topic A – Alexander the Great

or

Topic B – Aristophanes

or

Topic C – Themes in Greek Vase Painting

Topic A – Alexander the Great

This topic focuses on the life and career of Alexander the Great as seen through the eyes of his biographers.

Candidates will be expected to have a knowledge of the main events of his life, success and relationships, with a focus on his impact and his legacy.

This topic will develop candidates' historical analysis skills, requiring them to offer critical evaluation of the life of Alexander the Great and the character, career and success of Alexander in context.

Candidates will study a selection of biographical works and other sources on Alexander the Great with particular reference to his:

- family, childhood and upbringing
- campaigns and travels
- military achievements and the reasons for them
- rule of his empire and Persian influences on Alexander
- relationships with others
- attitude towards religion and mythology
- personal and imperial legacy.

Content

Candidates should be able to demonstrate knowledge and understanding of:

Alexander's family, childhood and upbringing

- his relationship with, and the influence of, his mother and father
- the effect on Alexander of the relationship between his parents
- the influence of his teachers, especially Aristotle
- his ambitions and attitudes as a young man, as shown by the taming of Bucephalus
- the assassination of his father.

The purpose of Alexander's campaigns and travels

- the attack on Persia
- his travels to Egypt, especially Siwah
- the march east beyond the Persian Empire
- the crossing of the Gedrosian desert
- his desire to push further east
- his return to Babylon after the Indian campaign.

The reality of Alexander's military achievements and the reasons for them

- the military achievement of being victorious in every battle
- the battles of Granicus, Issus, Gaugamela, Hydaspes
- the sieges of Tyre, Gaza, the Sogdian Rock and Aornus
- the significance of his strategic and tactical skill
- the role of his personal bravery and leadership
- the role of others in his military achievements
- his army.

Alexander's rule of his empire and Persian influences on Alexander

- administration of Macedonia – Antipater as regent
- the League of Corinth
- keeping the structure and administrators of the Persian Empire
- respecting local customs in areas he conquered
- adoption of Persian dress and customs
- his Policy of Fusion
- the intermarriage of Macedonians and Persians, including his own marriages
- the effect of these policies on his men.

Alexander's relationships with others

Alexander's relationship with and treatment of:

- Friends:
 - his lifelong friendship with Hephaestion
 - his reliance on his friends, such as Ptolemy and Seleucus
 - the murder of Cleitus
 - the executions of Callisthenes, Philotas and Parmenio
- His men:
 - the change in his relationship with his men from 'first among equals' to Persian style monarchy
 - opposition to his policies
- Enemies:
 - respect for enemies such as Darius III and Porus
 - harsh treatment of opponents such as Thebes and Tyre.

Alexander's attitude towards religion and mythology and his personal reputation

- his belief in his own divinity
- the use of oracles and omens
- his supposed descent from Heracles, Perseus and Achilles
- his attempts to outdo heroes of the past
- pothos events
- his portrayal on coins
- his use of Lysippos as 'court sculptor'.

Alexander's personal and imperial legacy

- the reasons for the title 'the Great'
- the legacy of his military successes
- his influence on later leaders
- his portrayal in art, such as his sarcophagus and the House of the Faun mosaic
- the collapse of his empire
- the establishment of the Hellenistic kingdoms
- the spread of Greek culture throughout the Eastern Mediterranean.

Sources for study:Literary sources

Arrian The Campaigns of Alexander Books 1, 2, 5
 Plutarch Life of Alexander

Teachers are free to use any complete translation of the literary sources. The literary sources are available in Penguin Classics editions and may also be found in several paperback collections.

Visual and material sources

Images of Alexander

- mosaic from the House of the Faun, Pompeii (Museo Archeologico Nazionali, Naples)
- the Alexander sarcophagus (Archaeology Museums, Istanbul)
- Marble copy of head of Alexander from a statue by Lysippos

Images of Alexander on coins

- silver decadrachm of Alexander c.324 BCE
- silver Porus Medallion showing Alexander on Bucephalus attacking Porus on an elephant/Alexander holding a thunderbolt and a spear (British Museum)

Candidates will be expected to understand the nature of the visual and material sources, and the problems in their use as evidence.

Topic B – Aristophanes

The plays of Aristophanes are the best known and most complete examples of comic drama from the Classical world. This topic provides students with the opportunity to study some examples of ‘Old Comedy’ from fifth century BCE Athens. They will explore the idea of humour and what an ancient Athenian audience found humorous but also consider the socio-political attitudes and values of fifth century Athens through the distorting lens of comedy.

Candidates will be expected to have an outline knowledge of the socio-political context of the plays and the place of comic drama within the framework of the state-sponsored festivals in Athens. Detailed historical knowledge of Athens in the fifth century BCE will not be required. An outline knowledge of the main events of the Peloponnesian War in relation to the plays should be understood.

This topic will develop candidates’ literary analysis and appreciation skills, requiring them to offer critical analysis of, and personal response to, the plays. This will include the religious, cultural and social values portrayed in the plays, the use of different comic techniques and the historical and political context of when they were written and performed.

Candidates study three plays by Aristophanes in their entirety:

- Lysistrata
- Acharnians
- Frogs

Content

Candidates should be able to demonstrate knowledge and understanding of:

The nature of comedy

- the plot and structure of the plays
- actors and the way they are used in ‘Old Comedy’
- the use and role of the Chorus including the parabasis (choral ode addressed to the audience)
- the use of masks and costume
- the conventions for performance and staging including:
 - the use of the theatrical space
 - props and effects
- the social and political context of the plays.

The experience of watching comedy

- social, moral and political messages of the plays
- possible interpretations of themes and messages by ancient and modern audiences
- possible reactions to comic techniques by ancient and modern audiences.

Comic techniques

- Types and sources of humour, including:
 - characterisation
 - disguise
 - fantasy
 - language and imagery
 - mistaken identity
 - parody
 - physical humour
 - political and social references
 - role reversal
 - satire
 - scatological humour
 - sexual innuendo
 - visual humour.
- Themes including:
 - slaves and masters
 - men and women
 - escapism and reality
 - moral purpose
 - nature of Greek tragedy: Aeschylus and Euripides
 - government – key institutions and politicians as referred to in the plays
 - individual and the state
 - justice and fairness
 - love and hate
 - war and peace.

Sources for study:

Aristophanes Lysistrata

Aristophanes Acharnians

Aristophanes Frogs

Each of the plays should be read in its entirety.

Teachers are free to use any complete translation of the plays. Where a passage is printed on a question paper it will be from the following translations/editions:

Aristophanes, Lysistrata and Other Plays, trans. Sommerstein, A, 2003, Penguin

Aristophanes, Frogs and Other Plays: trans. Barrett, D, rev. Dutta, S, 2007, Penguin

Extracts printed on the question papers will continue to be taken from these editions even if they go out of print, as centres may use any complete translation.

Topic C – Themes in Greek Vase Painting

The principal focus of this topic is on the art of Greek vase painting and how artists in the sixth and fifth centuries BCE developed new styles in composition, design and techniques to innovate and achieve the visual effect. Through the study of Greek vases students will also engage with the historical, religious and social aspects of the Greek world depicted on Greek vases.

Candidates will study a selection of Greek vases from two themes:

- Mythology – Trojan War
- Everyday life – the daily life of women.

This topic will develop candidates' visual and analytical skills, requiring them to offer critical analysis and personal response to the artistic achievements of the Greek vase painters.

Candidates should be able to:

- demonstrate skills in the assessment of visual materials
- express their personal response
- refer to specific vases
- critically evaluate the effect of the composition and techniques used
- explain and substantiate the arguments in their response.

Simple sketch diagrams/drawings may be included in answers to support analysis/evaluation, but will not be required.

Content

Candidates should be able to demonstrate knowledge and understanding of:

Function

- shapes of pots
- uses of pots.

Materials

- clay
- added colour and slip.

Techniques

- black-figure technique:
 - use of added colour
 - incision
- red-figure technique:
 - use of different sized brushes
 - use of diluted slip.

Stylistic features and development

- added white paint for female flesh
- frontal eye in profile head
- long fingers and feet
- decorative motifs
- drapery
- bi-lingual pots
- use of black-figure decorative motifs
- profile eye
- Miniaturist style
- Grand style
- Pioneer and Mannerist movements.

Composition

- dominant verticals, horizontals and diagonals
- pose – profile, frontal, $\frac{3}{4}$ view
- portrayal of anatomy
- foreshortening and torsion
- movement
- emotion.

Themes

- Mythology – Trojan War
- Everyday Life – the daily life of women.

Paper 2 – Roman Civilisation

Paper 2 Roman Civilisation allows students to explore the history, literature or material culture of the Roman world.

These different topics allow teachers flexibility in designing a course that meets the needs and interests of their students.

Candidates choose one topic from:

Either

Topic A – Augustus

or

Topic B – Virgil's Aeneid

or

Topic C – Architecture of the Roman City

Topic A – Augustus

This topic focuses on the life and career of Augustus as seen through sources. Octavian, later known as the Emperor Augustus, oversaw a fundamental change in the politics of Rome from a staunchly anti-monarchical republic to a system of one-man rule through careful adoption of official titles and duties and management of his image and public opinion.

Candidates will be expected to have a knowledge of the main events of his life, career and relationships with a focus on his impact and his legacy.

This topic will develop candidates' historical analysis skills, requiring them to offer critical evaluation of the life of Augustus and the character, career and legacy of Augustus in context.

Candidates will study a selection of biographical works and other sources on Augustus with particular reference to his:

- rise to power
- consolidation of power
- relationships with the Senate, including provincial administration
- foreign and frontier policy
- attitude towards religion and his use of religious imagery
- social legislation
- dealings with his family and his desire for a successor
- concern for his reputation and use of propaganda
- legacy and importance.

Content

Candidates should be able to demonstrate knowledge and understanding of:

Augustus' rise to power

- his connection with Julius Caesar
- his relationships with, and use of, other people, such as Mark Antony and Cicero
- the legality of his actions in seizing power
- the Second Triumvirate
- his military campaigns (44–31 BCE).

Augustus' consolidation of power

- his legal and constitutional position after Actium
- the reasons for the settlements of 27 and 23 BCE

- extent to which Augustus, his regime and the Roman Empire are promoted within the epic.

Sources for study:

Virgil Aeneid: Books 1, 2, 4, 6, 8, 12

Candidates are expected to know what happens in the whole epic as wider reading.

Teachers are free to use any complete translation of the Aeneid. Where a passage is printed on a question paper it will be from Virgil, Aeneid, trans. West, D, 2003, Penguin.

Extracts printed on the question papers will continue to be taken from this edition even if it goes out of print, as centres may use any complete translation.

Topic C – Architecture of the Roman City

The principal focus of this topic is on the architecture, types and functions of buildings in the Roman city and architectural decoration with reference to continuities, developments and changes. Through the study of specific building types and examples of these from several Roman cities, students will also engage with the historical, political, religious, cultural and social aspects of the Roman city.

Candidates will study a selection of the key public and private buildings from:

- Rome
- Ostia
- Pompeii
- Herculaneum.

Individual buildings/structures from other Roman cities are listed in the Sources for study.

This topic will develop candidates' visual and analytical skills, requiring them to offer critical analysis and personal response to both the functional and aesthetic aspects of buildings/structures.

Candidates should be able to:

- demonstrate skills in the assessment of visual materials
- express their personal response
- refer to specific buildings/structures
- critically evaluate both the functional and aesthetic aspects of buildings/structures
- explain and substantiate the arguments in their response.

Simple sketch diagrams/drawings may be included in answers to support analysis/evaluation, but will not be required.

Content

Candidates should be able to demonstrate knowledge and understanding of:

Function

- functions of the different types of buildings/structures in their context
- relationship between buildings/structures and their environment
- relationship between buildings/structures and form and function
- relationship between buildings/structures and their sculptural decoration (if any)

Paper 3 – Classical History

Paper 3 Classical History allows students to explore the history of either the Greek or the Roman world in more detail.

These topics develop students' knowledge and interest in the military, political, social and cultural history of the Classical world. They will study a range of original source material in its context to consider the significance and impact of events, individuals, culture and the differences and similarities between societies in either the fifth century BCE in Greece or the first and early second century CE in the Roman world.

Candidates choose one topic.

Either

Topic A – Athens and Sparta

or

Topic B – Emperors and Subjects: Claudius, Nero, Domitian and Trajan

The assessment will require candidates to respond to a short passage or passages from one of the set sources and answer a broader more thematic essay question. See section 4 Details of the assessment for more detail.

Topic A – Athens and Sparta

This topic focuses on the history of the fifth century BCE as seen through the eyes of authors of the period and later. Candidates will be expected to have a knowledge of the main events of the period (499–404 BCE), but details of specific battles will not be required.

This topic will develop candidates' historical analysis skills, requiring them to offer critical evaluation of the impact of the historical events in this period on the people of Athens and Sparta and the contribution of people of different status living in these communities.

Candidates will study a selection of historical, biographical and other sources on Athens and Sparta with particular reference to:

- the roles of men, women and non-citizens in Athens and Sparta
- political systems, functions of different groups within these systems and the influence of individuals on events
- the reasons for, impacts and outcomes of the Persian and Peloponnesian Wars
- alliances with other states
- relationships between the state and outsiders.

Content

Candidates should be able to demonstrate knowledge and understanding of:

Men and women in Athens

- the status and roles of citizen men in Athens
- the status and roles of women in Athens
- the status and roles of non-citizens in Athens: metics and slaves.

Men and women in Sparta

Paper 4 – Greek Literature

Paper 4 Greek Literature allows students to explore Greek culture, society and thought through the medium of tragedy or epic.

These topics develop students' literary analysis and appreciation skills. They have a choice from two of the most influential genres for the modern world, Greek tragedy and the epic poetry of Homer. Both genres focus on the mythological past and provide evidence for how the Greeks understood their past and represented their culture, values and ideas of moral behaviour.

Candidates choose one topic.

Either

Topic A – Greek Tragedy

or

Topic B – Homeric Epic

The assessment will require candidates to respond to a passage from the set literary sources and answer a broader more thematic essay question. See section 4 Details of the assessment for more detail.

Topic A – Greek Tragedy

This topic focuses on Greek tragedy and how the understanding of tragedy developed in Athens in the fifth century BCE. Candidates will be expected to have an outline knowledge of the socio-political context of the plays, their place within the framework of the state-sponsored festivals and the issues and morals that they reflect.

Detailed historical knowledge of Athens in the fifth century BCE will not be required.

This topic will develop candidates' literary analysis and appreciation skills, requiring them to offer critical analysis and personal response to the plays including the literary achievements of the playwrights. This will include the religious, cultural and social values portrayed in the plays and the historical and political context of when they were written and performed.

Candidates study four plays in their entirety:

- Aeschylus – Agamemnon
- Sophocles – Oedipus Rex
- Euripides – Medea and Bacchae.

Content

Candidates should be able to demonstrate knowledge and understanding of:

The nature of tragedy

- The development of tragedy during the fifth century BCE in Athens
- The structure of the plays
- The number of actors and the way they were used by the different playwrights
- The use and role of the Chorus
- The conventions for performance and staging:
 - the use of masks, costumes and props
 - use of the stage building
 - use of the orchestra
 - machinery (mechane and ekkyklema) and other effects
 - the social context of the plays
- The use of language and imagery, including dramatic irony
- deus ex machina
- Aristotle's definition of tragedy including:
 - catharsis (purging of emotion)
 - hamartia (tragic mistake)
 - peripeteia (reversal of fortune)
 - hubris (excessive pride).

The experience of watching tragedy

- The context in which tragedy was watched by an ancient audience:
 - religious context
 - festivals
 - competition
- Social, moral, religious and political messages of the plays
- Possible interpretations of themes and messages by ancient and modern audiences
- Possible audience reactions to language and imagery.

Common features of tragedy

- Features of tragedy:
 - the nature of the tragic hero
 - the nature of the Chorus
 - the role of the gods
 - characterisation and motivation of characters, including minor characters
 - the role of women in tragedy
 - messenger speeches
 - authors' treatment of traditional myths.
- Themes, including but not limited to:
 - gods, omens, oracles and prophecies
 - justice and revenge
 - kingship and the state
 - love and hate
 - loyalty and betrayal
 - the importance of family and children
 - death and burial
 - stories of the heroes and the ideas of honour and reputation
 - the role of fate.

Sources for study:

Aeschylus Agamemnon

Sophocles Oedipus Rex

Euripides Medea and Bacchae.

Each of the plays should be read in its entirety.

Teachers are free to use any complete translation of the plays. Where a passage is printed on a question paper it will be from the following translations/editions:

Aeschylus, The Oresteia, trans. Fagles, R F, 1979, Penguin

Sophocles, Three Theban Plays, trans. Fagles, R F, 1984, Penguin

Euripides, Medea and Other Plays, trans. Vellacott, P, 2000, Penguin

Euripides, The Bacchae and Other Plays, trans. Davie, J, 2006, Penguin

Extracts printed on the question papers will continue to be taken from these editions even if they go out of print, as centres may use any complete translation.

Topic B – Homeric Epic

The epic poems of Homer were considered by the Greeks to be a foundation of Greek culture, being the earliest surviving Greek literature. This topic provides students with the opportunity to study both of the epic poems of Homer.

Candidates will be expected to have an understanding of the historical and mythological background of the poems. Detailed historical knowledge will not be expected.

Candidates should be aware of the oral nature of composition and transmission of the poems which were later written down in their current form. As such, the poems reflect not just the time in which they were composed but also contain traces of earlier societies and culture.

This topic will develop candidates' literary analysis and appreciation skills, requiring them to offer critical analysis and personal response to the literary achievements of Homer and the religious, cultural and social values portrayed in the poems.

Candidates study a selection of Books from the epic poems of Homer:

Phrases such as 'To what extent ...?' and 'How far do you agree that ...?' may also be seen in the assessment for this syllabus.

5 What else you need to know

This section is an overview of other information you need to know about this syllabus. It will help to share the administrative information with your exams officer so they know when you will need their support. Find more information about our administrative processes at www.cambridgeinternational.org/eoguide

Before you start

Previous study

We do not expect learners starting this course to have previously studied Classical history, Classical literature or Classical languages.

Guided learning hours

We design Cambridge International AS & A Level syllabuses to require about 180 guided learning hours for each Cambridge International AS Level and about 360 guided learning hours for a Cambridge International A Level. The number of hours a learner needs to achieve the qualification may vary according to each school and the learners' previous experience of the subject.

Availability and timetables

All Cambridge schools are allocated to one of six administrative zones. Each zone has a specific timetable. Find your administrative zone at www.cambridgeinternational.org/adminzone

You can view the timetable for your administrative zone at www.cambridgeinternational.org/timetables

You can enter candidates in the November exam series.

Check you are using the syllabus for the year the candidate is taking the exam.

Private candidates can enter for this syllabus. For more information, please refer to the Cambridge Guide to Making Entries.

Combining with other syllabuses

Candidates can take this syllabus alongside other Cambridge International syllabuses in a single exam series. The only exceptions are:

- syllabuses with the same title at the same level.

Group awards: Cambridge AICE Diploma

Cambridge AICE Diploma (Advanced International Certificate of Education) is a group award for Cambridge International AS & A Level. It encourages schools to offer a broad and balanced curriculum by recognising the achievements of learners who pass exams in a range of different subjects.

Learn more about Cambridge AICE Diploma at www.cambridgeinternational.org/aice

Making entries

Exams officers are responsible for submitting entries. We encourage them to work closely with you to make sure they enter the right number of candidates for the right combination of syllabus components. Entry option codes and instructions for submitting entries are in the Cambridge Guide to Making Entries. Your exams officer has access to this guide.

Exam administration

To keep our exams secure, we produce question papers for different areas of the world, known as administrative zones. We allocate all Cambridge schools to an administrative zone determined by their location. Each zone has a specific timetable.

Some of our syllabuses offer candidates different assessment options. An entry option code is used to identify the components the candidate will take relevant to the administrative zone and the available assessment options.

Support for exams officers

We know how important exams officers are to the successful running of exams. We provide them with the support they need to make entries on time. Your exams officer will find this support, and guidance for all other phases of the Cambridge Exams Cycle, at www.cambridgeinternational.org/eoguide

Retakes and carrying forward marks

Candidates can retake Cambridge International AS Level and Cambridge International A Level as many times as they want to.

Learn more about retake entries, including definitions and information on entry deadlines, at www.cambridgeinternational.org/retakes

Candidates can carry forward their Cambridge International AS Level marks from one series to complete their Cambridge International A Level in a following series. The rules, time limits and regulations for carry-forward entries can be found in the Cambridge Handbook for the relevant year of assessment and the Carry-forward regulations supplement at www.cambridgeinternational.org/eoguide

To confirm what entry options are available for this syllabus, refer to the Cambridge Guide to Making Entries for the relevant series.

Language

This syllabus and the related assessment materials are available in English only.

Accessibility and equality

Syllabus and assessment design

At Cambridge we recognise that our candidates have highly diverse socio-economic, cultural and linguistic backgrounds, and may also have a variety of protected characteristics. Protected characteristics include special educational needs and disability (SEND), religion and belief, and characteristics related to gender and identity.

We follow accessible design principles to make our syllabuses and assessment materials as accessible and inclusive as possible. We review language accessibility, visual resources, question layout and the contexts used in questions. Using this approach means that we give all candidates the fairest possible opportunity to demonstrate their knowledge, skills and understanding.

Access arrangements

Our design principles aim to make sure our assessment materials are accessible for all candidates. To further minimise barriers faced by candidates with SEND, illness or injury, we offer a range of access arrangements and modified papers. This is the principal way in which we comply with our duty to make 'reasonable adjustments', as guided by the UK Equality Act 2010.

Important:

Requested access arrangements should be based on evidence of the candidate's barrier to taking an assessment and should also reflect their normal way of working. For Cambridge to approve an access arrangement, we need to agree that it constitutes a reasonable adjustment and does not affect the security or integrity of the assessment. This is explained in section 1.3 of the Cambridge Handbook www.cambridgeinternational.org/eoguide

Applying for access arrangements

- Details of our standard access arrangements and modified question papers are available in section 1.3 of the Cambridge Handbook www.cambridgeinternational.org/eoguide
- Centres are expected to check the availability of access arrangements and modified question papers at the start of the course. Check the Cambridge Handbook, the assessment objectives listed in the syllabus document and, where applicable, any access arrangement restrictions listed in the syllabus document.
- Contact us at the start of the course to find out if we can approve an access arrangement that is not listed in the Cambridge Handbook.
- All applications should be made by the deadlines published in the Cambridge Handbook.

After the exam

Grading and reporting

Grades a, b, c, d or e indicate the standard a candidate achieved at Cambridge International AS Level. 'a' is the highest and 'e' is the lowest grade.

Grades A*, A, B, C, D or E indicate the standard a candidate achieved at Cambridge International A Level. A* is the highest and E is the lowest grade.

'Ungraded' means that the candidate's performance did not meet the standard required for the lowest grade (E or e). 'Ungraded' is reported on the statement of results but not on the certificate. In specific circumstances your candidates may see one of the following letters on their statement of results:

- Q (PENDING)
- X (NO RESULT).

These letters do not appear on the certificate.

If a candidate takes a Cambridge International A Level and fails to achieve grade E or higher, a Cambridge International AS Level grade will be awarded if both of the following apply:

- the components taken for the Cambridge International A Level by the candidate in that series included all the components making up a Cambridge International AS Level
- the candidate's performance on the AS Level components was sufficient to merit the award of a Cambridge International AS Level grade.

On the statement of results, Cambridge International AS & A Levels are shown as General Certificates of Education Advanced Subsidiary Level and Advanced Level, GCE Advanced Subsidiary Level (GCE AS Level) and GCE Advanced Level (GCE A Level).

On the certificates, Cambridge International AS & A Levels are shown as General Certificate of Education.

School feedback: 'Cambridge International A Levels are the 'gold standard' qualification. They are based on rigorous, academic syllabuses that are accessible to students from a wide range of abilities yet have the capacity to stretch our most able.'

Feedback from: Director of Studies, Auckland Grammar School, New Zealand

How students, teachers and higher education can use the grades

Cambridge International A Level

Assessment at Cambridge International A Level has two purposes:

- 1 to measure learning and achievement
The assessment confirms achievement and performance in relation to the knowledge, understanding and skills specified in the syllabus.
- 2 to show likely future success
The outcomes help predict which students are well prepared for a particular course or career and/or which students are more likely to be successful.
The outcomes help students choose the most suitable course or career

Cambridge International AS Level

Assessment at Cambridge International AS Level has two purposes:

- 1 to measure learning and achievement
The assessment confirms achievement and performance in relation to the knowledge, understanding and skills specified in the syllabus.
- 2 to show likely future success
The outcomes help predict which students are well prepared for a particular course or career and/or which students are more likely to be successful.
The outcomes help students choose the most suitable course or career
The outcomes help decide whether students part way through a Cambridge International A Level course are making enough progress to continue
The outcomes guide teaching and learning in the next stages of the Cambridge International A Level course.

Changes to this syllabus for 2028, 2029 and 2030

The syllabus has been updated. This is version 1, published September 2025.

You must read the whole syllabus before planning your teaching programme. We review our syllabuses regularly to make sure they continue to meet the needs of our schools. In updating this syllabus, we have made it easier for teachers and students to understand, keeping the familiar features that teachers and schools value.

Changes to syllabus content

Set texts / sources have been updated for the following topics:

- Alexander, Paper 1
- Aristophanes, Paper 1
- Augustus, Paper 2
- Virgil's Aeneid, Paper 2
- Architecture of the Roman City, Paper 2
- Greek Tragedy, Paper 4
- Homeric Epic, Paper 4

Significant changes to the syllabus are indicated by black vertical lines either side of the text.

Any textbooks endorsed to support the syllabus for examination from 2022 are still suitable for use with this syllabus.

You should take account of the changes described above when using these textbooks.

Syllabuses and specimen materials represent the final authority on the content and structure of all of our assessments.

With a Customer Services team available 24 hours a day, 6 days a week, and dedicated regional teams supporting schools in 160 countries, we understand your local context and are here to guide you so you can provide your learners with everything they need to prepare for Cambridge International AS & A Level.

Quality management

We are committed to providing exceptional quality. In line with this commitment, our quality management system for the provision of international education programmes and qualifications for students aged 5 to 19 is independently certified as meeting the internationally recognised standard, ISO 9001:2015.
