Guidance notes

Background

Please see section 1.3 of the Cambridge Handbook for regulations governing all centre-delegated access arrangements. Centres are allowed to use certain access arrangements, known as 'delegated access arrangements' without prior permission from Cambridge. However, we must be notified of the use of centre-delegated access arrangements by the deadline and will issue an acknowledgment in due course.

Deciding on appropriate access arrangements

When deciding on appropriate access arrangements to use, please take the following into account:

- The arrangements the candidate uses everyday, and to access internal assessments such as mock exams
- any difficulties the candidate has experienced, and the remaining effects of these difficulties.

You can make delegated access arrangements for the following:

- extra time up to 25% (not permitted in syllabuses where time is the focus of the exam)
- separate invigilation
- word processor
- visual aids, for example, magnifying glasses
- prompter
- reading pen
- reading aloud
- coloured overlays
- supervised rest breaks
- transcript
- colour naming

- If you decide to use access arrangements without permission, use this form to record the arrangements you are using for each candidate. If you are using an access arrangement for a candidate with learning difficulties, please keep one of the following on file, along with a copy of this form:

- - a psychological assessment containing tests of speed, carried out by a qualified psychologist confirming a learning disability.
- - an assessment confirming the learning disability, containing tests of speed, carried out by a specialist teacher who holds a relevant qualification.
- - a report, containing tests of speed, written by a qualified teacher who has no additional special needs qualification, but has at least 5 years' work experience in the area of special educational needs.
- If you are using an access arrangement for a candidate suffering from a medical, physical, mental or other ill-health issue, please keep medical evidence e.g. a report, letter or sick note on file with a copy of this form.

Please note all assessments and reports must be dated within three years of the exam series

If your candidate requires non centre and centre-delegated access arrangements, please apply for all on Preparation – Form 1 with supporting evidence
